How the Tenure of Office Bill Suits Now The "tenure of office bill," which was passed to head off Captain Johnson, is rather troublesome now, and returns to plague the inventor. So when the bill was passed to retain Stanton in place and to annoy Johnson, and support Grant in his faithlessness to Johnson, the Democrats predicted it probably not now refuse to serve the executive. But the possibility becomes apparent that even Grant, bespecial occasions-"bloody instructions return to plague the inventors."

President Grant, with Sherman and Greeley against him, will find it difficult, even with the aid of his bayonets, to force his nomination. Even Radicals begin to see the dangers of military power, and that it will not be long before the President is regarded as a dictator, since he has, with loaded cannon and muskets, undertaken to protect one faction of Radicalism and to intimidate another. It is time for Sherman and Greeley to proclaim that this spectacle of armed interference at a nominating convention, in order to control the selection of candidates favorable to the President, is well calculated to excite alarm everywhere. If troops may be thus called out at the command of a mere revenue officer, to take part in a local controversy for candidates, they may, of revolution here was complete. The Democrats of Russia has very naturally caused larm lest the malady should again spread from West Europe to this convention, and the Radicals opposed country. The news requires confirmit. But the defeat of the Democrats ation; and much of the alarm depends upon a mistaken notion of the rapidity of diffusion and direction of progress of the epidemic. One account scribes the diserse as having made its way in the familiar cholera route, from Persia through Russia to the Baltic; and the Registrar-General, in his last weekly report, writes that "Asiatic cholera (as it was a painful duty to announce early last June) i entering Western Europe through Russia, whree Dr. Zuelzer says, it is fast advancing on the German frontiers. A Pleasant Revenge. It must afford the French some slight satisfaction to have found it in slight satisfaction to have found it in their power, to a small extent, literally to repay the Germans in their own coin. Most of us know what German money is, and we can therefore appreciate the dismay with which the authorities at Strasbourg witnessed the arrival of 18,000,000 francs in German silver pieces. This sum forms a collection of most of the money important and process of the provided by the General Council of the City of Memphis:

There is a saying in Germany that German princes enjoy constant good health, because their faces are always to be seen with only in new pieces, for in old the cop-per red on the cheek is obscured by he black coating collecting on the coins in greasy lumps. Of course this mode of payment imposed upon the German Commissioners the task of ounting over the whole sum, whereas the simple process of weighing suffices for French money. The thickness and weight of German comes varying in the same species often as one to three, or even one to four, the use of he balance is quite out of the question.
